

Global Liberal Arts: Career Designing 3A/Social Collaboration 3 【1 credit】
「Sustainability of Regional Societies」(Summer intensive)
Guidance on April 21 (Wed) 11:50~12:30 on Zoom

Sustainability of Regional Societies

At the Guidance for “Sustainability of Regional Societies”(held on-line as summer intensive), we will cover the details of the study plan and how to register.

The goals of the course is to recognize the contemporary problems the Japanese regional societies are facing and to search for effective measures through communicating with the local people, and come up with specific plans to revitalize the regions by collaborating with the local municipalities and industries.

During the class,

(1) One will learn how the municipalities reacted and responded to the covid-19 pandemic.

Participating municipalities are; Yamagata pref., Sagae-shi, Takahata-machi, Shirataka-machi and Iide-machi.

(2) JETRO will give us a lecture on issues relative to overseas expansion and telework

(3) Tufs Students will share what they discovered about Yamagata with the local student, and local students will share the challenges they are facing. Through such exchange, both will tackle together on the necessary measures to be taken to solve the issues

(4) We will invite the past participants and the local people to go over the proposed plans of the past participants, how it has been installed and its outcome and come up with new proposals.

Note: For those who plan to participate in the study tour scheduled to take place during winter quarter (official title of the course is “Study Tour for Developing and Revitalization of Regions”), please make sure to attend this course. To make the most out of the study tour, it is highly recommended to first participate in this summer course. Please join us for this guidance to know more about the course.
